The virgin protestant

- Heavenly father's son
- Kept his life and work secret
- Came often poor
- Was over 30 years old
- Few people liked him
- Never offered his blood
- Disgusted nothing he doing
- Was ashamed to see his disciples in front & go without him except he was willing to sacrifice himself for others
- Wanted no celebration during his last days

The child bourgeois

- Died early for sinners
- Many people believed that he was God
- Had many followers who were rich & powerful
- Was 12-15 years old
- Was very popular among people
- Did the works of miracles
- His father had different way
- Most people thought he was a magician
- Difficult to kill him

This is about the meaning of the word "deportation" in the document, which is relevant to the actual moral teaching in the document because of the equivocal meanings of the word. It is not about advancing some theory of historical evolution/change in the moral law.

John Winthrop @johndwinthrop · Jul 16, 2019

You don't have a rational ground to stand on. You just have one word (with multiple meanings) in one sentence of one document quoted out of historical context.

John Winthrop @johndwinthrop · Jul 16, 2019

The idea that the reference to "deportation" in Gaudium et Spes and subsequent documents quoting it is a reference to any enforcement of immigration law, and not the massive Soviet & Nazi German (non-immigrant) deportations that took place during/after WW2 is pretty laughable.

Now, since the sage kings are no more, the preservation of names is neglected,<sup>16</sup> strange propositions have sprung up, names and their realities have become confused, and the boundary between right and wrong has become unclear.<sup>17</sup> Even both the officials charged with preserving the codes of law and the Ru who recite their texts and enumerate their topics are also confused.<sup>18</sup> Should a True King appear, he would certainly retain some old names but he would also have to invent new names. That being so, it is indispensable that he investigate (1) the purpose for having names together with (2) what is the basis for distinguishing the similar from the different and (3) the crucial considerations for instituting names.<sup>19</sup>

John Winthrop · @johnWinthrop9 · May 30, 2019

Accordingly, the way a True King institutes names [is as follows] Because fixed names keep objects distinguished and because when his Way is practiced his goals are universally understood,<sup>20</sup> he takes pains to produce uniformity [in regard to names and his Way] among the people.<sup>21</sup> Because har-splitting with propositions and creating names on one's own authority brings confusion to the correct use of names and causes the people to be suspicious, multiplying argument and litigation among them, the True King labels these "Great Evils," to be punished as severely as the crimes of forging credentials or tampering with weights and measures.<sup>22</sup> Hence, none of his people dare avail themselves of odd propositions in order to create confusion in the correct use of names.<sup>23</sup> Thus they are guileless. Being guileless, they are easy to control. Being easy to control, there is meritorious accomplishment.<sup>24</sup> Since none dare avail themselves of odd propositions to bring confusion to the correct use of names, his people are thus united in adhering to his laws and meticulously follow their orders. When such a situation prevails, his legacy will long endure. To have one's legacy long endure and one's meritorious accomplishments brought to completion is the epitome of good government. These are the results of being assiduous in seeing that agreed upon names are observed.<sup>25</sup>

John Winthrop · @johnWinthrop9 · May 30, 2019

Tsze-lu said, 'The ruler of Wei has been waiting for you, in order with you to administer the government. What will you consider the first thing to be done?'

The Master replied, 'What is necessary is to rectify names.'

'So, indeed!' said Tsze-lu. 'You are wide of the mark! Why must there be such rectification?'

The Master said, 'How uncultivated you are, Yu! A superior man, in regard to what he does not know, shows a cautious reserve.'

'If names be not correct, language is not in accordance with the truth of things. If language be not in accordance with the truth of things, affairs cannot be carried on to success.'

'When affairs cannot be carried on to success, proprieties and music will not flourish. When proprieties and music do not flourish, punishments will not be properly awarded. When punishments are not properly awarded, the people do not know how to move hand or foot.'

'Therefore a superior man considers it necessary that the names he uses may be spoken appropriately, and also that what he speaks may be carried out appropriately.'

The term "serial killer" was first used to describe Ted Bundy.

In the months leading to his execution, he received more than 200 letters a day from women

"The Pope isn't a typical liberal, he just empowers typical liberals." Really makes you think, huh? Other than that, good analysis.

Damian Thompson @HeJammies · Apr 6, 2019
8. Djalalov is right that Francis-style Catholicism won't save the Church. The Pope isn't a typical liberal, but he's empowered people whose experiments have failed. Moreover, he's done so in a strangely confusing fashion. This is not a recipe for growth, or even survival.

TERRIFYING threat. Out of a horror movie.

Scene: you get diagnosed with cancer, sent to surgery maybe have organ removed. And it turns out the scan was FALSE + actually maliciously HACKED to show a bad condition not TRUE nor really there.

Like surgical SWAT-ing.
